

Iran supreme leader criticises proposed nuclear talks with US, upending push to negotiation

DUBAI, FEB 7/-/Iran's supreme leader said Friday that negotiations with America "aren't intelligent, wise or honourable" after President Donald Trump floated nuclear talks with Tehran. Ayatollah Ali Khamenei also suggested that "there should be no negotiations with such a government," but stopped short of issuing a direct order not to engage with Washington. Khamenei's remarks upend months of signals from Tehran to the United States that it wanted to negotiate over its rapidly advancing nuclear programme in exchange for the lifting of crushing economic sanctions worth billions of dollars. Following Khamenei's comments, the Iranian rial sunk to a record low of 8,72,000 rials to USD 1 in after-market trading. What happens next remains unclear, particularly as reformist President Masoud Pezeshkian promised as recently as Thursday to enter into dialogue with the West. Khamenei's remarks to air force officers in Tehran appeared to contradict his own earlier remarks in August that opened the door to talks. However, the 85-year-old Khamenei has always been careful with remarks about negotiating with the West. That includes balancing the demands of reformists within the country who want the talks against hard-line elements within Iran's theocracy, including the paramilitary Revolutionary Guard. Khamenei noted that Trump unilaterally withdrew from the earlier nuclear deal under which Iran drastically limited its enrichment of uranium and overall stockpiles of the material, in exchange for crushing sanctions being removed. "The Americans did not uphold their end of the deal," Khamenei said. "The very person who is in office today tore up the agreement. He said he would, and he did."

He added: "This is an experience we must learn from. We negotiated, we gave concessions, we compromised—but we did not achieve the results we aimed for. And despite all its flaws, the other side ultimately violated and destroyed the agreement." Mixed messages from both Iran and Trump It's not clear what sparked Khamenei's remarks. However, they come after Trump suggested he wanted to deal with Tehran, even while signing an executive order to reimpose his "maximum pressure" approach to Iran on Tuesday. "I'm going to sign it, but hopefully we're not going to have to do it very much," he said from the Oval Office. "We will see whether or not we can arrange or work out a deal with Iran." "We don't want to be tough on Iran. We don't want to be tough on anybody," Trump added. "But they just can't have a nuclear bomb."
